

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In order to manufacture a cylinder of a rotary printing machine cost-effectively, its cylinder body is assembled from a cylinder casing and a first and second side part located at the ends of the cylinder casing, one and the same first and second side part being capable of being completed in order to produce different cylinders with cylinder casings of different outside 5 diameters.